ALEX BOURBIGOT ADIDAS 1-PAGER · BRAND COMMUNICATIONS

I'M BACK.

Last year, I applied for an adidas internship. I made it past the first round, but no further. I took that as a sign I still had more to learn. So I spent the year getting closer to sport: running it, telling its stories and building something others could join.

#2 APPLICATION

02 WHAT CHANGED

ONE YEAR. NEW SPLITS.

On paper: management, export sales and sport retail.

BEYOND THE CV ↓

NOV 2025

19K+

LA GAMBERGE

Started sharing what I was learning as a runner. Now a community of 19,000+.

APR 2026

2:38

PARIS MARATHON

From 2:59 to 2:38:21 in one year.

SEP 2026

2,020

BACK TO RUN

I built my first running challenge from scratch. 2,020 people joined.

MAR 2027

NEXT

HERZOGENAURACH

Six months. Ready to move.

03 YOU GOT THIS

REMEMBER IT'S A GAME.

5 km every day sounds like pressure, and Back to Run's rules were demanding. So I wrapped them in a playful world: a beaver mascot, a "Tribunal" to plead a missed day, runners pushing each other to come back. The challenge stayed real. Playing it together made it easier to carry.

WHAT I'D BRING TO BRAND COMMUNICATIONS

01 SEVERAL SIDES OF SPORT

Beginner, then competitive runner. Participant, then organiser. Watching sport's stories, then telling my own.

02 IDEAS GROUNDED IN PRACTICE

Publishing and running a challenge gave me ideas I couldn't test alone. I'd bring the strongest ones, ready to be challenged by the team.

03 LISTEN, THEN CREATE

I talk with my audience directly. Their replies show me which stories land, spark a reaction and make people want to join in.

04 THE REST OF THE STORY

LAGAMBERGE.COM/ADIDAS-BRAND-COMMUNICATIONS →

alex.bourbigot78@gmail.com · From 1 March 2027 · Ready to move to Herzogenaurach